

ABSTRACTS

This study aims to understand the effects and causes of road traffic accidents on national security in Tanzania based on some parties of one district of the Arusha region. The research based on the general objective that was to provide an analysis of road traffic accident to national security, especially on its consequences and the specific objectives such as identifying road safety measures in Tanzania, examining the level of awareness of the road safety measure on various road users and identifying the effects of road traffic accidents to the society. The study used both the qualitative and quantitative methods in the data collection semi-structured view and document review.

The questionnaire were prepared and distributed to the respondents, and the questionnaires were filled and used for analysis.

LIBRARY
INSTITUTE OF ACCOUNTANCY
ARUSHA